DETAILED ACTIONClaim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Fogle (5,463,815).

Fogle teaches a string trimmer liner comprising an elongated filament member having a cross section throughout the length thereof with a thickness which is less than the width thereof and which has top and bottom surfaces located in first and second parallel planes, and a portion 26 of at least one of the top and the bottom surface located in a plane other than the first and second planes. See Fig. 7.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 3, 4, 8 and 13-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fogle (5,463,815) in view of Walsh (US Pub. 2002/0086156 A1).

Regarding claims 3, 4, 8 and 13, Fogle teaches the invention substantially as claimed except for the material of the filament.

Walsh teaches the use of an extruded high molecular weight oriented plastic to make the filament. See paragraphs [0002, 0007]. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to use an extruded high molecular weight oriented plastic to make the filament of Fogle.

Regarding claims 9, 10, 14 and 15, Fogle teaches the invention substantially as claimed except for the material of the filament having molecular orientation in both the direction of the length and the width.

Fogle teaches the use of axial oriented material. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to use the material having molecular orientation in both the direction of the length and the width to make the filament of Fogle to enhance its strength and abrasion resistance.

Response to Arguments

Art Unit: 3724

5. Applicant's arguments filed 05/07/2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

The Applicant argues that Fogle does not teach the cross-section of the filament having a thickness being less than the width. This argument is not persuasive. Since the Applicant does not clearly define the shape of the cross-section and how the width and the thickness are measured, Fogle reads on the claim 1. The distance between two horizontal tips is the width of the cross-section instead of the distance B1 since it is the dimension that dictates how many filaments can be put horizontally in a box for selling. The distance between two horizontal surfaces is the thickness of the cross-section since it is well known in the art that the thickness is the dimension between two surfaces of an object.

Conclusion

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
